The pensions landscape is evolving rapidly, and 2025 marks a pivotal year for pension schemes. With pensions dashboards becoming a reality and the demand for high-quality data reaching critical mass, schemes must act now to stay ahead.

At Aptia, we understand the challenges schemes face in navigating this transformation. Our latest white paper, "Good Data – why it matters; how to get it; how to keep it" explores the crucial steps pension schemes must take to ensure you are prepared.

Key insights from the white paper:

- Why data quality is no longer optional: Essential for dashboards, regulatory compliance, and derisking opportunities.
- The actions schemes must take now: Meeting The Pensions Regulator's expectations for governance and compliance.
- Strategies for maintaining data integrity: Avoiding pitfalls that can delay transactions and increase costs.
- How digital innovation can enhance member experience: Supporting an aging population and vulnerable members.
